Keynote: Richard Rieben | Director, Risk Services | Secuvant

Richard Rieben is Director, Risk Services for Secuvant. Richard leads a team supporting a comprehensive suite of services, including enterprise security operations center, cyber risk management program, strategic security plan development, compliance readiness assessment, as well as vCISO, and advisory services. Richard focuses on the human element of information security and is passionate about mentoring and leadership. He enjoys engaging with remote teams to overcome the challenges associated with digital transformation. Richard gives back to the IT security and project management industries as a member of the CompTIA Subject Matter Expert Governance Board. In his spare time, Richard lives on a small farm outside of Dayton, Ohio with his wife and children, which include a set of triplets and children adopted from Uzbekistan, Ukraine and Bulgaria. Richard holds a MBA from Western Governors University with a concentration in IT Management. Richard’s talk is titled “The Seven Deadly Sins of Project Management.”

Roundtable: Jerod Brennen | Sr. Security Architect | SailPoint Technologies

Preceding the keynote will be a roundtable group discussion moderated by Jerod Brennen, Security Architect, Consultant, teacher, and Evangelist. Jerod has been fulfilling Information Security roles for over 20 years, including consulting, higher education, retail, and public utilities. Jerod shares what he’s learned over the years with local and regional information security organizations, as well as larger InfoSec conferences. Jerod’s roundtable will delve into controversial news items and current ideas in the area of Information Security and Privacy, as he facilitates, stimulates, and challenges our modern thinking about the digital lifestyle.
